Les Saucier is going to be our speaker this month. He will be presenting a program titled "Digital Macro Photography". Les is from Weaverville, NC, just north of Asheville, and has been very active in Carolina Nature Photographers Association for several years. His bio is below.

BIO

Les Saucier, who resides in the heart of the Southern Appalachians Mountains, has taught nature photography workshops for over twenty-three years, as well as nature photography courses at the University of Georgia. Trained as a biologist, Les developed many unique photo techniques during his years as a bio-photographer and researcher with the USDA's Agriculture Research Service. As a professional stock photographer, his credits include publication of images in numerous books and magazines, including National Geographic. As a fine art photographer, Les has participated in numerous juried shows and has had several solo shows. Besides teaching photography workshops in the Southern Appalachians and other places off the mountain, he is a photographic coach for those who are ready to move up to the next level on their creative journey. He also offers photographic tutoring for those who are camera manual-challenged. Les's web site is AppalachianJourney.com.
